Module 1

Bowen Techniques (Foundations)

This two-day, hands-on workshop with Kevin Ryan (renowned Bowen Technique lecturer, osteopath and acupuncture practitioner) has been structured specifically for Chinese Medicine and Shiatsu practitioners. It is particularly suitable for Acupuncturists and those who have some experience with body work techniques such as Tui na, Shiatsu or myofascial release.

The gentle and powerful techniques, developed by Tom Bowen during his 35 years of practice, rely for their effect on the stimulus produced when specific contact points, that you will know as acupuncture points, are used with a cross-fibre stretch or slow motion flick.

Kevin's interest in acupuncture has enabled him to draw out this aspect of the Bowen work. This unique approach to muscular skeletal presentations with an emphasis on examination through observation, palpation and motion testing a simple technique will be taught for measuring the holistic changes that follow treatment.

- The history of the development of the group of techniques
- Introduction to the combination of easy to learn observation and palpation skills that will enhance your understanding of the patient's presentation
- The importance of assessing motion restrictions and alteration of muscle tone and the impact on posture
- The application of these techniques to a wide range of conditions involving pain and restricted motion of joints including the back and neck, shoulders, hips and knees and small joints
- The use of these techniques in chronic conditions
- Introduction to visceral applications
- Detailed attention is paid to the integration of the examination process and the choice and application of the techniques
- The incorporating of the techniques into an acupuncture, tui na or shiatsu session

Module 2

Bowen and Dao Ma Techniques

This is a two-day hands-on, follow-up workshop.

This workshop develops the Foundation work through the refinement of the techniques through an emphasis on using the examination protocols of observation, palpation and motion testing to individualize the techniques applied to each patient.

Day one will expand and explore more deeply, the gentle techniques developed by the late Tom Bowen. Your body work skills will be polished and enable a more confident approach when using the techniques to correct the patient's structural and functional balance.

The second day of the workshop will be devoted to teaching Kevin's own technique, Dao Ma (Coupled Point) Posture technique. This approach uses light contact on two or more acupuncture points that connect with the body part being treated. At the same time a combination of guided motion and the breath brings about improved function in the joints or soft tissues affected. The two techniques are compatible with each other and with needling, Tui na and Shiatsu

“Kevin Ryan is a brilliant practitioner with a wealth of knowledge in Bowen, TCM, Osteopathy and Naturopathy. I recently attended his two day course workshop on Bowen Techniques and have since been practicing the techniques in clinic with impressive results. This course provides gentle manual techniques that can be assimilated into any practice”

- N. Conte (Acupuncturist)
